

NEW SILK ROADS RESEARCH

Dr. Sean (Sobhan) Asian is a management scientist, operations researcher, and systems engineer, with special interests in exploring and solving complex Supply Chain Management, Logistics, and Transportation problems.

Dr. Asian is the Editorial Advisory Board (EAB) member of "Transportation Research Part E" journal for supply chain management (starting from Jan-2019). He also serves as a reviewer and guest editor of International Journal of Production Economics, Transportation Research Part D, International Journal of Production Research, Annals of Operations Research, IEEE Transactions on Engineering Management, IEEE Transactions on Systems, Man, and Cybernetics - Systems.

Dr. Asian's multidisciplinary research addresses planning problems in transportation, logistics, and complex systems, where managing uncertainties and proposing practical decision support systems are extremely important yet challenging. Another stream of Dr. Asian's research is the development of innovative and sustainable business models that can deliver the triple bottom-line of people, planet, and profit.

Dr. Asian completed his Ph.D. from Nanyang Technological University (NTU), Singapore. His PhD was fully supported by Singapore's national Agency for Science, Technology, and Research (A*Star), where he worked as a researcher on several R&D projects. Following Ph.D., he joined Siemens-Dematic (South-East Asia) as a business consultant where he worked on a number of supply chain network optimization and intra-logistics automation projects. Prior to joining LBS, Sean was awarded the Vice Chancellor Research Fellow at College of Business, RMIT University and served as Course Coordinator, Researcher, and Lecturer.

Dr. Asian has developed, coordinated, and delivered both face-to-face and online courses on several topics, including Strategic Supply Chain Management, Operations Management, Operations Research, Project Management, and Supply Chain Modelling and Analytics. Dr. Asian has work experience and collaborations in Australia, Denmark, China, Iran, Hong Kong, Singapore, UAE, UK, and USA.
